The Border Collie is a breed of working and herding dog that was developed in the Anglo-Scottish border region. The breed being developed on the border between England and Scotland is thought to be the origin of the breeds name - the 'Border' Collie! Likewise, the term 'Collie' is thought to have been derived from the Celtic word for 'useful.' The breed was originally developed to be capable of herding livestock, especially sheep, and to be highly intelligent and obedient. The Border Collie is a descends from the Landrace collies that originate from the British Isles. The Border Collie has a double coat, soft dark eyes, a well-defined stop and a athletically built body. The breeds double coat can come in two texture variations: smooth and rough. The rough coat variation is of a medium to long length and has feathering on the dog's legs, chest and belly. The smooth coat variation is short all over and has minimal feathering. The breed will most commonly have a black coat with white patches on its face, neck, feet, legs and tail. However it is not uncommon to find Border Collies with bicolorred, tricolorred, merle or solid coat colorations. As a whole, the Border Collie is known to be a intelligent, loyal and affectionate breed. In this fun, inviting look at a serious topic—codependence—Nancy L. Johnston shares the life lessons she learned from her observations of the relationship behaviors exhibited by her pet collie, Daisy: "The book began by my noticing behaviors in Daisy that resemble the codependent behaviors in me, which I have been working to moderate through my recovery. Daily I am struck by our tendencies to attend to others, to herd, to overreact." Johnston's delightful book examines twelve specific behaviors that, in their extreme form, can be codependent. It also offers new information on codependence and help for it, including the latest research-supported findings, so that readers can understand "What am I doing that is not producing the relationship results I really want?" Nancy L. Johnston, MS, LPC, LSATP, is a licensed psychotherapist and licensed substance abuse treatment practitioner in private practice in Lexington, Virginia. She has thirty-three years of clinical experience addressing a wide range of emotional and behavioral issues.
