Section 23 of The Non-Fatal Offences Against the Persons Act 1997 provides for minors aged 16 or 17 to consent to surgical, medical or dental treatment. Generally speaking, parental consent is needed for all other minors, and for 16 and 17 year olds who lack capacity, but there may be circumstances in which a person under the age of 16 who demonstrates the maturity to understand the implications of a particular treatment does not wish his or her parents to be involved in that decision.

Consent and minors. We should now focus on two important aspects relating to the issue of consent and the position of minors from the perspective of the GDPR. According to Article 6 (1) (a) of the GDPR, the processing of personal data is considered lawful if data subjects provide their consent to this processing for one or more specific purposes. Thus, if the consent of data subjects is obtained, controllers and processors may process personal data of individuals.

Consent and minors -

Understanding the GDPR

Shared decision making and consent are fundamental to good medical practice. This guidance explains that the exchange of information between doctor and patient is essential to good decision making. Serious harm can result if patients are not listened to, or if they are not given the information they need - and time and support to understand it - so they can make informed decisions about their ...
