Death with Interruptions (published in Britain as Death at Intervals), is a novel written by José Saramago. First released in 2005 in its original Portuguese, the novel was translated into English by Margaret Jull Costa in 2008. The novel centers around death as both a phenomenon, and as an anthropomorphized character.

Death with Interruptions by José Saramago

Nonetheless, Death with Interruptions is indeed the epitome of black comedy. The idea in itself is humorous - mainly because it can never happen and we are all safe from it - that death does not occur and the people live on. Saramago takes a very serious and careful look at the logistics if this would occur.

Saramago suffered from leukemia. He died on 18 June 2010, aged 87, having spent the last few years of his life in Lanzarote, Spain. His family said that he had breakfast and chatted with his wife and translator Pilar del Río on Friday morning, after which he started feeling unwell and died.

José Saramago - Wikipedia

From Bookmarks Magazine Few writers work at the top of the game in their mid-80s, but with Death with Interruptions, Jose Saramago delivers a brief allegory long on shrewd social commentary. His work has consistently been compared to that of Franz Kafka and George Orwell, and the dark humor here only sharpens Saramago's satirical cudgel.
