In English folklore, Herne the Hunter is a ghost associated with Windsor Forest and Great Park in the English county of Berkshire. He is said to have antlers growing from his head, ride a horse, torment cattle, and rattle chains. The earliest mention of Herne comes from William Shakespeare's 1597 play The Merry Wives of Windsor, and it is impossible to know how accurately or to what degree Shakespeare may have incorporated a real local legend into his work, though there have been several later a

Herne the Hunter – Mythopedia

Herne The Hunter, phantom hunter who haunts Windsor Great Park, impersonated by Falstaff in Shakespeare ' s The Merry Wives of Windsor. Though Herne may have been an actual keeper of the forest, he is probably a local manifestation of the Wild Huntsman myth known throughout the world. The usual story associated with the Wild Hunt involves someone excessively fond of the chase who makes a rash pledge or compact with a stranger (the devil) and is thus doomed to hunt forever.

Herne the Hunter - Real Life Ghost Stories

Herne was considered a divine hunter, and was seen on his wild hunts carrying a great horn and a wooden bow, riding a mighty black horse and accompanied by a pack of baying hounds. Mortals who get in the way of the Wild Hunt are swept up in it, and often taken away by Herne, destined to ride with him for eternity.

Encountering Herne the Hunter is a bad omen, especially to the royal family. According to local legend, Herne only appears in Windsor Forest when needed, such as in times of national crisis. Was Herne the Hunter Cernunnos, the Celtic horned god or the Norse god Odin? There many ancient accounts of people and gods with horns. Horns represent the primal power of nature, express the unstoppable power and the majesty and throughout human history, horns have been synonymous with this strength.

Herne the Hunter – Book of Eucalypt

Herne the Hunter is a spectral huntsman of English lore, often the leader of the Wild Hunt or the nocturnal processions of the dead. As leader of the Wild Hunt, Herne has lunar associations. His name is associated with another leader of the dead, Herlechin, or Harlequin, also associated with the Devil.

Herne the Hunter – Occult World

Herne/Orion possibly? I believe it is possible there may have been a widespread pan-European god figure who was a hunter, who wore horns and was associated with the oak tree. Variations of the name might include Orion the greek hunter who has a constellation. Orion is a summer constellation only, which may explain the hunting connection.

An appearance of Herne the Hunter in Windsor Forest is followed by tragedy or disaster, often of national importance. The stag-horned Herne is probably the most famous leader of the Hunt, who has often been linked to the Celtic god Cernunnos (and even more speculatively to the palaeolithic 'sorcerer' figure in the cave of Les Trois Frères).<sup>3</sup>
