The Image S4i Rugged's audio works with virtually any device that has a standard 3.5mm headphone jack; however, the mic and three-button remote support select Apple products. Unlike other headsets, the S4i Rugged positions its mic and remote at the cable yoke to create a more natural feel when answering calls and controlling music.

The MSRP on both the Klipsch Image S4A and Image S4i is $99, but they're commonly found online for closer to $50. At $99, the issues with the Klipsch Control app and the relatively snag-happy cable might be enough to put me off, but at the price they're currently selling for, it's much easier to overlook.
