This book maps points of common understanding and cooperation in the interpretation of landscapes. These interfaces appear between cultures, between natural and human sciences, lay people and experts, time and space, preservation and use, ecology and semiosis. The book compares how different cultures interpret landscapes, examines how cultural values are assessed, explores new tools for assessment, traces the discussion about landscape authenticity, and finally draws perspectives for further research.

Provides an evolutionary perspective on the origin of products. Offers a method to give designers directions in New Product Development.

"This book provides a unified framework of web scraping and information extraction from text data with R for the social sciences"--
