This book explores the role of civil servants and their trade unions in the public management reform process, framing it in its economic, social, cultural and legal contexts. Building on neo-institutional and stakeholder theories, the book shows how staff and their representative organisations have influenced the formulation and implementation of public management reforms in twelve OECD countries. This study challenges top-down elite theories that have dominated the existing literature, explaining how staff participation practices, both direct and indirect, have impacted on the implementation of reforms in different ways in different countries. The book concludes that variations in staff participation in the reform process depend upon institutional and political factors and the distribution of power in the employment relationship.

Public Administration explains how to use statistical methods to help understand and respond to public problems. Organized around a series of unique reference tables, this book simulates the problems public administrators routinely encounter and diagnose. The tables guide students through applicable statistical methods for solving problems, teaching both what to do, and how to do it. As a result, students will learn to recognize where quantitative methods are useful, and apply the skills needed to solve real-world problems during their professional careers in the public sector. Also includes
