Morning Star, the third installment of the Red Rising Saga, exceeded all my expectations. My favorite so far!

Currently, Pierce Brown is in a head-to-head battle with George R.R. Martin to become the 'Author Intentionally Trying to Crush My Soul'. Brown has created a hellishly brutal world here.

Darrow is a Helldiver, one of a thousand men and women who live in the vast caves beneath the surface of Mars, generations of people who spend their lives toiling to mine the precious elements that will allow the planet to be terraformed. Just knowing that, one day, people will be able to walk the surface of the planet is enough to justify their sacrifice.

Rising #3. Vee / 28 July 2016. Yes! I finished the series! It might have taken me forever but I have done it! And to celebrate this accomplishment, here is my review! Darrow is alive but just barely. Betrayed by those he trusted the most, he finds himself broken and lost. But the Sons of Ares still need him.

Morning Star continues the ravaging pace set by its predecessor and if you found Golden Son difficult to put down, you will most certainly have similar problems here.

The third instalment of this series begins with Darrow at his lowest. The war is no longer a civil war between golds, but a clash of colours across all of the solar system.

I've enjoyed the final book in a young

guilty pleasures to frustratingly
disappointing, and The Maze Runner series left my interest in the dust by the end of book two.
