This is the 1823, first edition engraving by Asher Durand, after Colonel John Trumbull's original painting -- depicting the signing of the Declaration of Independence -- the rarest and most celebrated of all subsequent engravings. Of the many paintings produced by American artist John Trumbull (1756-1843), his painting Declaration of Independence, which was commissioned in 1817, purchased in 1819, and placed in the rotunda of the United States Capitol in 1826, is his most prolific

The book is an easy read, though wonks will appreciate the various drafts of the Declaration in the appendices. The author presents the Universal Declaration of Human Rights as an accomplishment of the first order, and she is right. We are all well advised to hone our appreciation of it. Reading this book is an excellent way to do so.
