The Wide, Carnivorous Sky is an outstanding collection that would have been well worth the cover price just for Mother of Stone alone, but in addition to this thoroughly engrossing, disturbing and masterful novella, you have 8 other wonderful short stories, in which Langan treats some of the most familiar horror tropes in a unique and original way.

The Wide, Carnivorous Sky and Other Monstrous Geographies ...

The Wide, Carnivorous Sky and Other Monstrous Geographies is (another) excellent collection of short horror stories written by someone of whom you have never heard. And compared to any "collection of best new horror 20xx" it's a very strong anthology indeed. Langans interest seems to be in how the story is told, rather than what the story concerns.

Fiction Book Review: The Wide Carnivorous Sky by John ...

The Wide, Carnivorous Sky and Other Monstrous Geographies by John Langan. I loved The Wide, Carnivorous Sky and Other Monstrous Geographies. The book collects nine of John Langan's short stories, some original and some reprinted. I first encountered Mr. Langan's work in The Mammoth Book of Cthulhu, which I have been slowly devouring since I bought it back in 2016.

The Wide, Carnivorous Sky and Other Monstrous Geographies ...

The Wide, Carnivorous Sky and Other Monstrous Geographies has much to offer horror fans of all kinds. Langan enjoys playing with familiar horror tropes, but in a totally unfamiliar way. He is a stylist, and his stories are all fresh and unique. The collections open with a vignette, Kids, a story from the collection Jack Haringa Must Die!

The Wide, Carnivorous Sky | THE DES LEWIS GESTALT REAL ...

I think the ending of "The Wide, Carnivorous Sky" is intentionally ambiguous. The story is a metaphor for dealing with post-traumatic stress. Even after facing down the thing and beating it, they'll never be at ease again. In "The Shallows," the entire world has gone awry due to the return of the Old Ones.

"I want to be like John Langan when I grow up, okay? He blends meticulously crafted traditional narratives with joyous genre-bending and narrative rule-breaking. His stories are fiercely smart, timely, timeless, heartbreaking, and of course, flat-out scary. Langan fearlessly commits to his monsters, his characters, his readers, to his vision of the horror story and the messed-up, broken, frightening world we inhabit. Wide, Carnivorous Sky, indeed."-Paul Tremblay, author of The Little Sleep and Swallowing a Donkey's Eye. John Langan has, in the last few years, established himself as one of the leading voices in contemporary horror literature. Gifted with a supple and mellifluous prose style, an imagination that can conjure up clutching terrors with seeming effortlessness, and a thorough knowledge of the rich heritage of weird fiction, Langan has already garnered his share of accolades. This new collection of nine substantial stories includes such masterworks as "Technicolor," an ingenious riff on Poe's "Masque of the Red Death"; "How the Day Runs Down," a gripping tale of the undead; and "The Shallows," a powerful tale of the Cthulhu Mythos. The capstone to the collection is a previously unpublished novella of supernatural terror, "Mother of Stone." With an introduction by Jeffrey Ford and an afterword by Laird Barron.

Presents five dark tales that deal with encounters with the supernatural as in the tale of a young couple determined to stay alive as they fight their inhuman pursuers.

Reissued with a new introduction by Adam Nevill and including a Reading Group Guide, House of Windows is a masterpiece haunted house story by rising star in Horror John Langan. "Think Henry James and Joyce Carol Oates with just a few paragraphs of Joe Lansdale..." -Tor.com "John Langan is a writer of superb literary horror. Both House of Windows and The Fisherman are dark and unsettling contemporary masterpieces." -Peter Straub, New York Times bestselling author For the last few years, Veronica Croydon has been at the center of scandal, first as the younger woman for whom her famous professor left his wife, and then as his apparent widow. When a writer staying at the same vacation home as Veronica has the chance to hear her story, he jumps at it. What follows takes him to the dark heart of a father's troubled relationship with his only son, in a story that stretches from a college town in the Hudson Valley to the battlefields on Afghanistan, from post-9/11 America to the height of Victorian England. It is a story that leads inexorably to the Belvedere House, the home Veronica shares with her husband, within whose walls a father's terrible words to his son echo and gain in awful force. House of Windows is a tense, frightening exploration of a marriage under strain from forces both psychological and supernatural, and it is a meditation on the ways loss haunts every one of us. "House of Windows is a haunted house story of the highest order." -Strange Horizons Reading Group Guide Inside

A collection of horror short stories and the short novel Sefira; the short novel and the short story At home in the house of the Devil are original to this collection, the other six short stories have been previously published.

"Jeffrey Ford is one of the few writers who uses wonder instead of ink in his pen...A rare and wonderful talent." -Jonathan Carroll, author of The Wooden Sea Eclectic is certainly an adjective that can be used to describe the work of the phenomenal Jeffrey Ford--along with imaginative, provocative, mesmerizing, and brilliant. His powerful dark fantasy, The Physiognomy, was a New York Times Notable Book of the Year; his novel, The Girl in the Glass, won the Edgar® Award, mystery and crime fiction's most prestigious prize. Crackpot Palace is Ford's fourth superb collection of short fiction, and in it, his prodigious talent shines as brightly as ever. Here are twenty tales both strange and wonderful, filled with mad scientists, vampires, lost souls, and Native American secrets, from an author who has been glowingly compared to Kafka, Dante, and Caleb Carr (The Alienist).

"In upstate New York, in the woods around Woodstock, Dutchman's Creek flows out of the Ashokan Reservoir. Steep-banked, fast-moving, it offers the promise of fine fishing, and of something more, a possibility too fantastic to be true. When Abe and Dan, two widowers who have found solace in each other's company and a shared passion for fishing, hear rumors of the Creek, and what might be found there, the remedy to both their losses, they dismiss it as just another fish story. Soon, though, the men find themselves drawn into a tale as deep and old as the Reservoir. It's a tale of dark pacts, of long-buried secrets, and of a mysterious figure known as Der Fisher: the Fisherman. It will bring Abe and Dan face to face with all that they have lost, and with the price they must pay to regain it."--Publisher.

The title story of this collection – a devilishly ironic riff on H. P. Lovecraft’s “Pickman’s model” – was nominated for a World Fantasy Award, while “Probiscus” was nominated for an International Horror Guild award and reprinted in The Year’s Best Fantasy and Horror 19. In addition to his previously published work, this collection contains an original story.
