"Wigs on the Green," was published in 1935 and was Nancy Mitford's third novel. This pre-war novel is a satirical look of the rise of fascism in 1930's Europe. Of course, Nancy Mitford was well placed to cast her sharp eye on events - her sister Diana was married to Oswald Mosley and her sister Unity, infamously, flirted with fascism.

Nancy, as the eldest and most sensible sister, rose above it all and kept a pin-sharp writerly eye on the political mayhem that three of her sisters wished to wreak upon the world. Her third novel, Wigs on the Green (1934), which predates her big successes, shows the acuity of her sense of the absurd, as well as the essential bravery of the writer in addressing issues close to home.

Eugenia Malmain is one of the richest girls in England and an ardent supporter of Captain Jack and the Union Jackshirts; Noel and Jasper are both in search of an heiress (so much easier than trying to work for the money); Poppy and Marjorie are nursing lovelorn hearts; and the beautiful bourgeois Mrs Lace is on the prowl for someone near Eugenia's fabulous country home at Chalford, and much farce ensues.

Written in 1934, early in Hitler's rise, Wigs on the Green lightheartedly skewers the devoted followers of British fascism. The sheltered and unworldly Eugenia Malmain is one of the richest girls in England and an ardent supporter of General Jack and his Union Jackshirts.
